

Dr Steven Blome

Radiologist

MBBS (HONS), FRANZCR

Dr Blome graduated from the University of Sydney in 1978, he trained in radiology at Royal North Shore Hospital and gained the College of Radiologists (RANZCR) fellowship in 1986.

He has since worked at Royal North Shore Hospital, first as a staff specialist and from 1999 as Director of Radiology.

He has been involved in breast imaging since specialisation when he was appointed to Sydney Breast Clinic, and took up a position with BreastScreen NSW.

He is experienced in all aspects of screening and diagnostic breast imaging, with a special interest in MRI and the correlation of multidisciplinary investigations.

Steven is a Senior Lecturer in Radiology with the University of Sydney and is actively engaged in training of radiology registrars.

He has presented at many professional meetings and published widely.